

Colleagues Like These

What is it?

A hilarious and thoroughly revealing game show, based on a fusion of "Friends Like These" and "The Generation Game". Let a workmate decide your fate! Trust, judgment and courage all come into play as teams uncover their hidden talents and try not to shame themselves in front of the entire company...

How does it work?

Contestants are divided into teams, and the compère presents the whole group with a selection of challenge titles. Based on the name of each challenge alone, teams nominate the person they believe most capable of succeeding in the challenge.

Once nominated, candidates may find out that the challenge isn't quite as they expected – but it's still up to them to put in their best effort for the team. Some challenges also allow more than one contestant to fight for team points – meaning greater amusement and hilarity...

The process of choosing contenders is almost as enjoyable as the challenges themselves – revealing what colleagues think they know about each other, as well as what they undoubtedly don't!

Five or six challenges will provide an evening of wacky entertainment. However, choosing which tasks to include from our extensive repertoire is the hardest challenge of all! We can recommend from a myriad of the mental, physical or plain idiotic. For a completely bespoke game, we can get our creative juices flowing and come up with something especially for you!

The Challenges

Apple Bobbing: For those adept at this classic Halloween hobby, our 'ample' apples will ensure that teeth and jaws are truly tested.

Balloon Modelling: What do you mean 'what is it?! It's a poodle.... I think. Time to find out that those 'dexterous' department members aren't actually that dexterous at all...

Big Buzzer: Don't allow the giant metal wand to touch the elaborate and electrified course.

Bits n' Pieces: Hum, chant or sing along at the top of your voice – whatever helps you name that tune from the shortest of snippets.

Body Parts: Did you pay attention in biology class? Put body parts on a colleague correctly to win. If you need to prod or squeeze colleagues to check where things go, please ask permission first!

Can this be me?: Put your promotion on the line as you create a devilishly witty caricature of the most senior member of your organisation on a giant flip chart.

Rachel Riley: Find out who leaves work early to catch Countdown - we've borrowed Rachel's letters and numbers to recreate a Countdown Conundrum.

Coconut Shy: They're big, they're hairy and they're not shy. Chuck a ball at our coconuts and knock them to the floor.

Crazy Boules Alley: A good eye? Steady nerves? Brought up in France? Then have a bash at this game.

Cream Cracker Crunch: People coming back late from the pub will be familiar with this. One minute, one plate of cream crackers – gulp down as many as you can. An archetypal test of human ability.

Current Tastes: Who knows their Chardonnay from their Shiraz? Who has a taste for the finer things in life and who'll chug any old rubbish? Find out in this blind taste test.

